BUILDING A LIBRARY.

No Royal Road to One Which Will Be of Real Service.

As there is no royal road to learning, so there is no royal road to that outward and visible sign of it which consists in shelves well filled with books, says a writer in Kate Field's Washington.
The man who wants a library can not get it ready made. He may, it is true, buy a collection of books fairly well fitted to the average mind, but it will be about as satisfactory as the ready-made coat fitted to the average body.
It will fail to meet his individual eccentricities.

Nor can the ideal library be gathered in a hurry. Nothing is more helpful to the tone and quality of a library than such a moderate degree of poverty as will limit purchases at first to the absolutely essential. In the buying of books, as in the buying of pictures, real discrimination comes only through actual experience, and it is very unfortunate to have too many bought at a low grade of development; but, on the other hand, no man should wait to begin his library until his taste is fully formed, or it will lack many books which he would gladly have there, but which would not run the gauntlet of his mature judgment.

A very common error in buying books is to start with cheap editions under the erroneous impression that later on they may be replaced by good ones. Unfortunately, the mind of the book lover will not assent to this plan, however strong his will. The book he takes up to read is invariably the old and shabby one, and the other becomes only a splendid bit of decoration, to please the eye of the visitor. Your pet literature always tastes best from the page on which you originally read it; so, when you buy a book of which you are likely to become fond, it should be in a good enough form to keep. At least, paper and print should be so respectable that a new binding will be all the change necessary. With the habitual student the sense of location is very highly developed. In his own library he finds things by their position on the page, and can turn at once to any given passage in a familiar author. But put him in a room full of strange editions, and this laboriously acquired sixth sense becomes utterly useless.

The taste for fine bindings is a liking apart from the love of books for what they contain, but it is by no means an ignorable tendency, and adds vastly to the aesthetic effect of a well-chosen library.
The housing and care of books, too, is a subject not beneath the notice of even the profoundest student.

INEXPENSIVE BENEVOLENCE.

The Method a Wise Man Used with Circulators of Subscription Papers.

I was in the office of a Chicago real-estate and loan agent the other day, says a writer in the New York Sun, and had scarcely got seated when a woman was admitted, and asked him for a subscription to some charity.

"With the greatest of pleasure, ma'am," he replied, and producing a check-book he filled out a check for $10.
She thanked him very sweetly as she withdrew, and it was only five minutes after when a man entered and asked for a contribution to some poor children's fund.

"Certainly—only too glad," replied the agent, and he wrote out another check for $10.

After we had been interrupted four times, and he had cheerfully written four checks I said to him:
"You certainly deserve the title of a philanthropist."
"Well, perhaps."
"But I notice that you ask no questions and take every thing for granted.
Have you no fear of being swindled?"
"None whatever."
"Well, the people of Chicago must be an honest crowd."
"Oh, it isn't that, my dear sir. Let me—"

Here a lady entered and asked for a contribution to assist in giving a free excursion to a Sunday-school, and he wrote out a check for $15 and waved her out, and continued:

"Let me explain. All those checks are worthless, as they are drawn on a bank where I have no funds. I do it to save time. All these callers come prepared to argue and explain and contend, and each one of them would sit for half an hour. By giving these checks I secure a great reputation around the block as a philanthropist and a well-heeled man, and it costs me nothing. When—"

Here he paused to fill out a check for $20 for the establishment of a sailors' bethe, and then finished:

"When the checks are presented they are found to be worthless, and those holding them either get mad or see the joke. In either case they never return, nor do they give me away. Try it, my boy. Saves time, money and gab; and it won't be a month before you'll be satisfied that you are doing charity a better service than if you were handing out the cold cash."

Some of Both.

Medical scientists can not agree as to whether the man who commits suicide is insane or idiotic, says the Detroit Free Press, and there is a prospect of reaching a verdict which will end with "some of both." It is a fact that out of every fifty suicides only two or three can be accounted for by any reasonable excuses on the part of the living.

A Tough Squaw.

At the San Carlos agency an Apache brought a bottle of whisky that his wife could carry two hundred pounds of flour half a mile without resting. She was a light, slim woman, but she added fifteen pounds to the load and ten rods to the distance and won the whisky for her liege lord. It unnecessary to say that she got none of it.

Evaporation of the Nile.

A peculiar feature of the river Nile is that from its junction with the Atbara, for a distance of more than 1,500 miles to the sea, there are no affluents. This fact, together with the burning sand and the hot sun of the desert, causes the most of the stream to evaporate, leaving but a small body of water to flow into the sea.

Arrested on the Charge of Stealing Watched.

Warren Williams was arrested yesterday morning by Officer Wolfe on a warrant sworn out by Dr. St. John, charging him with stealing two silver watches and a gold chain valued at $55.
Williams remained locked up for several hours, but the doctor afterward withdrew the warrant and allowed the prisoner to go free. Chief Morris gave him a severe reprimand, which he accepted with smiles.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at Budwell, Christian & Barbee's drug store; large bottles 50c. and $1.00. tu, th, sat
